24 December 1949

The death of Major General John Porter Lucas, Deputy Commanding General, Fifth Army, which occurred at Great Lakes Naval Training Station Illinois on 24 December 1949 is announced to members of this command with deep regret.

For a period of over 38 years of distinguished service, General Lucas has held positions of great responsibility and trust. His leadership and courage in the performance of varied duties set a high example to the officers and men of this command.

General Lucas was born 14 January 1890 at Charlestown, West Virginia. He graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1911. Originally commissioned in the Cavalry, he served with the Signal Corps and, subsequently, transferred to Field Artillery in 1920. On 10 October 1940 he was appointed a Brigadier General. He has served in grade of Major General since 5 August 1941.

His distinguished career as a combat commander began in the Philippines where he served until 1914. He took part in U.S. Army action in connection with Pancho Villa's raid in Columbus, New Mexico, in 1916. Following this, he served with the Punitive Expedition into Mexico and then joined the U.S. Expeditionary Forces in France where he was wounded in action near Amiens in June 1918. In World War II, he was given command of the II Corps in Sicily in 1943 and shortly thereafter assumed command of the VI Corps in Italy. In January 1944, he commanded the invasion of Anzio with his Corps and attached troops, to relieve the pressure on the Cassino front. This critical assault developed into one of the epoch-making campaigns of the war in Italy.

General Lucas holds the Distinguished Service Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster; the Distinguished Service Medal (Navy); the Silver Star; and the Purple Heart. He was authorized the following Service Medals: Mexican Service; the American Defense; American Occupation; European-African-Middle Eastern Occupation; World War I Victory and World War II Victory. He is the recipient of the Grand Order of SS. Maurice and Lazarus (Italian) and the Grand Cordon of Cloud and Banner (China).

The Commanding Officer, Fort Sheridan, Illinois, is charged with Military arrangements in connection with observance of such funeral arrangements as may be decided upon.
